HEAD OF BANK IS KILLED IN FALL DOWN MOUNTAIN

Lester L. Bond, 32, Yardley, Fractures Skull In 100-Ft. Plunge

COMPANION A WITNESS

Friend Saw Bond Fall But
Was Unable to Aid
Him

The president of the Yardley National Bank, Lester L. Bond, 32, was instantly killed yesterday afternoon while attempting to scale the vertical side of Blue Mountain on the New Jersey side of the Delaware Water Gap, near Columbia.

The victim suffered a fractured skull when he lost his balance and plunged nearly 100 feet to a rocky shelf below. One of his companions who had started out in the morning for a day of adventure witnessed the tragedy.

With John Rende and Raymond Hampton, both of Yardley, Bond, who had devoted considerable time to tramping and nature study this fall, motored to the Gap for a tramp through the hills.

Apparently challenged by the rocky wall towering 100 feet from the slope of Blue Mountain, Bond and Rende decided to scale the cliff, while Hampton started for the top by another approach.

Without climbing equipment other than heavy boots, Rende and Bond made their way up the wall of stone and by foot. The former made the climb safely, but when Bond was a few feet from the top, Rende told authorities, he missed his footing, gave a grunt and plunged to the shelf below. His body rolled 200 feet down the slope after striking the ledge.

Summoning all his courage, Rende began the downward climb. The progress was slow, and it was not until some time later that he reached Bond's side. He shouted for Hampton and later succeeded in attracting the attention of a passing motorist, who notified the Washington State Police.

Trooper M. S. Young investigated and notified Coroner Lloyd B. Cochran.

Son of Morton Bond, of Morrisville, the victim was one of the most popular young men of Bucks County. He went to Yardley about 19 years ago to accept a position in the bank there, but after three years he purchased a tract of land between Yardley and Morrisville and devoted his attention to developing home sites. The tract was known as Silver Lake Terrace.

While still engaged in the real estate business, Mr. Bond was elected to the board of directors of the old Yardley Bank and served in that capacity until the institution closed its doors during the bank holiday in March, 1933.

After a short period, Mr. Bond was named as conservator of the bank. It is believed that he was the youngest man in the country to be named for such a position.

When it became apparent that the institution did not have enough assets to permit a reopening, Mr. Bond headed a reorganization move. He personally sold more than half of the new stock and subsequently was named president of the institution.

Popular in the community, Mr. Bond was active in most every venture except politics. He was an ardent sportsman and had planned a hunting trip in the Maine woods in the near future.

His companion, Hampton, is cashier of the Yardley National Bank, while Rende is associated with the Yardley Bleachery.

Mr. Bond, who was unmarried, resided on the Yardley-Morrisville Road. In addition to his father, Mr. Bond leaves a sister, Mrs. George Leedom, and two brothers, Arthur and Dr. R. M. Bond, all of Morrisville.

MANY PRIZES

Among the many prizes to be offered at the card party tonight for benefit of the Mary's Athletic Association of Langhorne, and to be held in A. O. H. hall, here, are: Pig, coal, baskets of fruit, silverware, glassware, etc.

STAND UP AND CHEER!

They said that NRA would raise our wages. GREAT!

They said that NRA would shorten hours. GOOD!

But higher wages per hour, and fewer hours of work, doesn't add anything in the pay envelope. NOT SO GOOD!

Then they fixed it so each dollar buys less and less. VERY BAD!

And then they slapped a tax on food and clothing. TERRIBLE!

Brother, we got something done to us!

Captured, Sentenced

Murray Humphries

Taken into custody after a two-year nationwide search by federal agents, Murray Humphries, above, Chicago's "Public Enemy No. 1" and successor to the underworld czarship of Al Capone, is pictured in Chicago following his arrest. Within a few hours after he was seized Humphries pleaded guilty to a federal indictment charging him with income tax evasion, and was sentenced to Leavenworth penitentiary.

"THE TELFORDS" MAY BE MERGED INTO ONE BORO'

If Proposition is Approved at The Election In November

ARE ON COUNTY LINE

TELFORD, Oct. 29.—"The Telfords," twin townships of the North Penn Valley, are to be merged into a single borough, if a proposition to that effect is approved by the voters of the two towns at the November election.

The Telfords are located on the Montgomery-Bucks counties line, between Sellersville and Souderton. Telford is on the Bucks side, West Telford is a Montgomery county town. To all intents and purposes, they are one town, but the centre line of County Line road, the main street, divides them. There are two borough councils, two school boards and two burgesses, but one fire company and one chamber of commerce.

Plans for making the twins a political unit have been stirring for over five years, but never before quite materialized. It was not until this fall that the borough councils got together and drafted articles of consolidation acceptable to both.

The articles of agreement set forth the following points:

The boroughs of Telford and West Telford shall be consolidated.

That the name of the new borough shall be the Borough of Telford.

That the new borough shall be divided into two wards, Ward No. 1 being what is now known as Telford, which comprises 94.48 acres, and Ward No. 2 being the part now known as West Telford, which comprises 278.62 acres, and that each ward shall be represented in council by three councilmen.

That all property, assets and liabilities of the two boroughs shall be assumed by the consolidated borough.

That these articles of agreement shall be submitted to the voters at the regular election on November 6.

BABY ARRIVES

Mr. and Mrs. Bradley Ardrey, Harison street, are receiving congratulations upon the birth of a daughter, Sunday morning, in Dr. Wagner's Hospital.

GO OUT AND VOTE

The Republican party has a registered majority of 1,350,000 in Pennsylvania this year.

But that's no reason why any Republican should take anything for granted.

It means that if Republicans go out and vote there will be an overwhelming Republican victory November 6th.

And an overwhelming majority, as State Chairman M. Harvey Taylor has pointed out, is precisely what is needed.

A smashing triumph for Reed and Schnader will do more to stop the invasion of Pennsylvania rights from Washington than any other one thing.

Big figures are understood at Washington, and if Reed and Schnader receive the hearty endorsement of Pennsylvania, it will be interpreted at the national capital as meaning that the Keystone State is just about fed up with the kind of treatment it has been receiving and means to stand up and fight for its rights, as it always has done.

It is the duty of loyal Pennsylvanians to go out and vote this year as never before. And they shouldn't have to be urged to do it.

CARDINAL DOUGHERTY PRAISES THE RED CROSS

Southeastern District Workers Are Commended By His Eminence

The Southeastern Chapter of the Red Cross, which many solicitors are aiding now by their pleas to localities, is the recipient of praise from Cardinal Dougherty. The work of the Gray Ladies of the Southeastern chapter was thus commented upon by Cardinal Dougherty:

"Wherever there is a disaster, whether from earthquakes, or floods, or typhoons, or hurricanes, or from fires, droughts, famines or epidemics, in times of prosperity, and in days of depression, the Red Cross organization is spontaneously looked to for help, and never disappoints those who seek its aid.

"The officers of the National Red Cross have my best wishes for success in your forthcoming Roll C. I. I trust that your appeal for membership and contributions will meet your hopes and expectations."

Croydon Couple Wed At Home of Justice of Peace

CROYDON, Oct. 29.—A very pretty wedding took place Saturday at four p. m., at the home of justice of the peace James Laughlin, Maynes Lane, when Miss Ruth Crawford, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Crawford, Pennsylvania avenue, and Howard Boyd, son of Mr. Edwin Boyd, Rosa avenue, were united in marriage.

The bride wore a gown of powder blue satin and a small hat to match, carried a bouquet of carnations and lilies of the valley. The bridesmaid, Miss Katherine Burkett, was attired in pink satin and carried pink carnations.

The groom was attended by his brother, Edwin Boyd, Jr.

A reception occurred at the home of the bride's parents with 75 people from Bristol, Philadelphia, Langhorne and Croydon present. A collation was served. Music and dancing brought the evening to a festive close.

Mr. and Mrs. Boyd will make their home with Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Crawford.

"Cleopatra" Is A Lavish And Interesting Picture

What is probably Cecil B. DeMille's greatest spectacle, in a long line of motion picture productions, "Cleopatra," the noted director's latest Paramount production, opens at the Grand Theatre tonight for two nights.

All the glory that was Egypt, all the grandeur that was Rome is shown here in a screen masterpiece, bringing here in a motion picture once again all the talent of the master of spectacle.

War chariots thunder across the sands, spears glisten in the thrill of battles, dancing girls swing and swirl through grand marble halls and back of it all, in clear tones, rings the world's greatest love story that has lived throughout the ages.

With Claudette Colbert, Warren William and Henry Wilcox in the principal roles, the film boasts of a grand array of star talent, a veritable army of extras. More than 5,000 men, women and children took part.

ST. ANN'S GRIDDERS WIN ANOTHER VICTORY

Local Eleven Triumphs Over
Lambertville Ramblers, 12 to 6

By T. M. Juno

The St. Ann's A. A. gridders again proved their worth yesterday.

After trailing in the first quarter, they scored twice in the following period to eke out a close victory over the Lambertville Ramblers on the local field. Final score was 12-6. Both teams had their quota of rooters which numbered close to 2000. These fans were treated to the best game seen on St. Ann's field this season.

The clubs fought tooth and nail throughout. The forward defense of the teams was outstanding, even though they were severely pounded throughout the contest. The Jersey team had an edge on the locals in weight but this made no difference to the localities who showed their fighting spirit in that first half when they came from behind to overpower the visiting club.

A strong wind was a hindrance to the team defending the north goal of the field. It was here that most of the playing was done in the afternoon. The three touchdowns were counted.

Fatal Accident Occurs In Trevoise; Woman Dies

TREVOISE, Oct. 29.—A Philadelphia woman was killed when the automobile in which she was riding crashed into an embankment, on the Brownsville Road, near here, yesterday, and overturned.

The victim, Mrs. Elizabeth Schacter, 32, of 4512 D street, Philadelphia, was pronounced dead when she arrived at Frankford Hospital.

The woman's husband, Charles, 31; Lawrence Brady, 31, and Andreas Bumbach, 32, all of Philadelphia, had minor cuts and bruises, as the result of the crash. They were treated at Frankford Hospital, also.

Bumbach told Corporal Evans and Patrolman Budavage, of South Langhorne Highway Patrol, that he was forced from the highway by another machine. He was not arrested.

Fourteenth Birthday of Evelyn Whitcoe is Marked

The 14th birthday anniversary of Miss Evelyn Whitcoe, Garden street, was celebrated with a costume party, Saturday evening, at the home of her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Carter, 555 Swain street.

HALLOWE'EN PARTIES OF INTEREST TO ALL AGES

Adults, Juniors and Children
Have Some Jolly
Affairs

MANY PRIZES ARE GIVEN

In celebration of the spirit of Halloween, numerous masked parties are taking place in various sections of the borough.

A most novel affair occurred Saturday evening in the basement of the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Werner, Fillmore street, when their daughter, Miss Phyllis Werner, was hostess.

As the guests entered the living room they were greeted by a ghost, who escorted them to the chamber of horrors, in the rear of the house. There a devil took charge and placed each one, in turn, on the "hot seat." This was a chair made hot by an electric heating pad. The room was pitch dark. Here two ghostly eyes peered and came toward the occupant of the seat, while the devil related his weird tale. Suddenly a whistle sounded, lights flashed on, a confusion of noises ensued and the guests were then escorted to the basement by another ghost.

Seasonal games and refreshments were enjoyed by Anita Zag, Margaret Phipps, Irene and Violet Ruth, Rachel Charlotte Rathke, Dorothy Mulholland, Vance Bots, Jr., Daniel Halpin, Peter Peters, Clifford Hagerman, Harley Davies and Gary Bonenna.

The devil was impersonated by Miss Werner's father, Harry Werner, while Vivian Werner and Gladys Weik took the parts of the ghosts.

Miss Edith Allen, 965 Garden street, was hostess at a Halloween party Saturday evening. Dinner was served to the Misses Lillian Holmes, Mary Holmes, Mae Van Doren, Garnetta Herman and Rose Stephenson; Messrs. Robert Van Aiken, Robert MacDonald, Francis Johnson, Russell Marshall and Henry Streeter, Bristol; and Francis Rodbard, Germantown. Games in keeping with the season, occupied the remainder of the evening.

A group of young folks gathered Saturday evening at the home of Miss Mabel Sheldon, 274 East Circle, to enter into the spirit of Halloween. The fun makers who were masked, included: Ruth Richardson, Jessie Bell, Norrine Wheeler, Mary Jane and Sara Roberts, Mary Yates, Robert Jeffries, Joseph Snyder, Jr., Joseph Whitaker, Paul Vandergift, Harry Seebold, Russell Herman, George McLean, Wil-

WANT STORES REOPENED

Cleveland, Ohio, Oct. 29.—A crowd estimated at 1000 non-union employees of the Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea Company marched through Cleveland streets today to the city hall to present a petition calling upon Mayor H. L. Davis for action to induce the company to reopen its stores. The crowd decided to present their petition to the Mayor after a mass meeting near the main A. & P. warehouse in the city. Daniel F. Meier, branch manager of the company, addressed the rally telling the mass there was nothing he could do toward reopening the 300 stores in Cuyahoga county which closed Saturday as an aftermath of trouble between the company officials and labor union.

FIRE DESTROYS BIG STOREHOUSE AT KING'S FARMS

Blaze May Have Been of An Incendiary Origin, It Is Claimed

AFIRE FEW WEEKS AGO

Loss on Building and Contents
Is Placed At
$18,000

Fire, believed to have been of incendiary origin, early Saturday evening destroyed a barn and packing house along with the contents consisting of a quantity of packing crates and three tractors. The loss is estimated at $18,000 and is partly covered by insurance.

The building belonged to the King Farms and was located on the property of the Warner Sand Company, along the old Wheatfield, above Tullytown.

Fire companies from Bristol, Edgely, Fallsington and Morrisville responded to the call and remained at the scene for several hours. The firemen devoted their efforts to saving a large farmhouse located very close to the burning building. The house was not damaged.

William L. Stackhouse, Bucks County fire marshal, is conducting an investigation to determine the origin of the blaze. He said last night that he did not care to venture an opinion on what caused the blaze.

Carl King, one of the officials of the farm company, likewise could not account for the flames. No one was working in the building, he declared, and there was nothing stored in the place that would cause combustion.

The building was of the old cellar-type barn, and in addition to being used for the crating of broccoli, also was utilized as a storehouse for crates, three tractors and three wagons. The crates and machinery were destroyed.

King valued the building at $10,000, the crates at $5,000 and the machinery at $3,000. The loss is partly covered by insurance, he said.

The flames broke out shortly before 7 o'clock, and were discovered by a passing motorist. He sounded an alarm which brought the fire companies.

The spread of the blaze was so rapid that the structure had fallen in the foundation by the time the apparatus reached the scene. The firemen stood by to prevent sparks from igniting the farmhouse.

Fed by the thousands of crates, the flames shot skyward, causing a glow which could be seen for miles. At its height, the blaze was plainly visible from Morrisville and down river communities.

The farm on which the barn was located is owned by the Warner Company, of Morrisville, but is leased for agricultural purposes by the King Company. The land is devoted largely to the raising of broccoli. The harvesting of this crop is well under way, and the destruction of the packing house will work a hardship on the concern.

Mr. King said that the gathering of the product will continue after other arrangements are made for handling it.

The same building was discovered to be on fire a few weeks ago but the blaze was extinguished.

BORROWINGS

Some significant figures are contained in the Monthly Survey of Business issued by the American Federation of Labor. To persons of a studious turn of mind they may furnish a little light on the present business situation.

The figures show that in 1929, when business was humming and optimism reigned, borrowings by business men and interests from member banks of the Federal Reserve System totaled almost $12,- 000,000,000. In the same year the government borrowed $4,000,000,- 000. This year the government is borrowing $9,000,000,000, while loans to business are running at the rate of about $5,500,000,000.

It is the loans to industry that furnish an insight into general business conditions. Money so lent is used to create new wealth in the form of goods. Large borrowings are made in a time of prosperity, when there is a big demand for manufactured goods.

Loans to business in the last few years have been comparatively small. The government has increased its borrowings in an effort to prime the business pump—to stimulate business activities. Some progress in this direction has been made, but no great advancement has been recorded. The Survey's figures show that business still is hesitant to expand. It remains nervous and apprehensive. Industrial leaders wish to go ahead but they are apprehensive of what Washington may do.

Not until this situation is changed is there likely to be any rapid improvement of conditions.
A return of confidence is needed.
Business leaders continue to look to Washington for encouragement. So far their hopes have been largely in vain.

NEW GAME

Forever precocious, the young ones who play on the sidewalks of New York have invented a new game, the "cops and robbers." The head of a family in New York who long has been at work telling a welfare committee there that he has found a small child, crying, each other from imaginary homes, instead of playing cops and robbers.

Probably parents and everybody else ought to be worried over a social order in which evasion is so common a practice that the children pick it up for a game. But for any deep spiritual hurt that might grow out of it there probably is not much reason for concern. Children have a habit of making games out of grim social material. They have always loved to play cops and robbers, Indian scalping parties and burnings at the stake. To them recently, no doubt, have been added kidnappings and machine gun massacres.

Echoes of The Past

By Louise White Watson

Honors

Different localities hold up their heads declaring, "we did this and so on, many, many years ago." For instance, Burlington, N. J., one of our nearby neighbors, points to the fact that one of her citizens, Charles Newbold, took out the first American patent on a plow in 1797. This invention was considered a wonderful feat, for could it not be drawn by two oxen whereas other plows required strength of eight or ten? One reading of the clumsy plows long in evidence in different parts of the world, questions Echo in this manner: "Have they of the off-lands never heard of the new devices being used in the upturning of sod or the cultivation of crops?" Echo, ever ready with answers to just such questions, returns, "In a way, yes. But some people do not care for change. Their minds have grown into such deep rut that they indifferently say, 'Let the other fellow work it out. This way is good enough for me,' and what can you do but abide by their decision.
You know, the world over, there is ever the one who feels it a duty to mankind to prod him in the side and question, 'Why do you not fall into the line of progress?' and is often met with a cool shrug of the shoulder that suggests 'You go your way, I'll go mine.' And then Echo, having offered this bit of philosophy, goes happily on her way and one is left still wondering. It is the way of many—

and the younger generations come under this head smilingly assenting their elders, with a conciliatory smile.
"Your methods are so quaint," a father of five children having listened with the patience expected by Youth returned, "I know it is the fashion of the day for children to attempt the training of their parents. Now, I don't mind being lectured by you children so long as you have something vital to say." It is simply a difference in one's viewpoint. But the Newbold plow was indisputably, a move in the right direction. Other plows have come to the front since then, many of them,
each with its own mark of distinction,
cutting through the sod with a precision that excites wonder and admiration. Man's progressive work!

Arms

Then the farmers begin relating honors of their own section. They can name harrows, plows, give the names of inventors, give the worth of the implement in dollars and later resolutely name the best methods used for producing better crops, and then in the evening he will seat himself beside the electric lamp, knowing recent devices have assured him water will be pumped for house and barn without any effort on his part; will know that the wood-chopping and woodbox filling has been reduced to the minimum by the inventive mind of other Newbolds, no matter under what name they pursue their stronghold on earth.
One man, thus spending his evening after a day in the fields, is heard to chuckle. Wife questions the cause of that same chuckle and Husband reads after saying, "Listen to this, will you?" Potatoes, immaculately scrubbed and carefully wrapped in tissue paper, the now come from the State of Idaho." It was one—was it a woman—planned this method of making the potato, put its company manners in hopes it was a bright find entrance into homes that wouldn't mind paying for that scrubbing of the potato that has held its own all through the years. And then some one ever pick potatoes, I mean, in putting forth a claim for honors in women-folks? I did, once when a school girls on a Saturday in order to him this service paying at the rate of

of fifty cents a day and board, and self. I never knew fifty cents could be so gloriously in the morning
and dwindle to more backbone. And the time the sun had gathered its covers and gone into some other realm at night. It was anything but
"The end of a perfect day." I never saw those pickers in the fields, bending
over, bean vines, dragging their backs
along, and thankful for the chance
chance to earn a living from the soil,
but what I wonder why some one
does not claim the honor for his
house-keeping of planning a dinner
that whisks dizzily over these same vines and deposits the beans with a flourish into the waiting basket. But another raises hands in protest.
"What, would you have still other machinery invented, in this age of machinery, and thus deprive us of our livelihood?" No, no, I take it all back. "Man must work and women
must weep," so goes the old song.

Echo

Echo, laughing, flirting, drifting, with the swift falling of leaves, calls back. "They fall just as they did in the Octobers of the years ago, each and all holding a chapter of the great book of Nature, revealing to us the knowledge of the past, the present, and dipping without fear, into the future. She tells us that the firm that exported the celebrated chests of tea

that figured in the Boston Tea Party, this still doing business; also that a statuette of the Babylonian Venus has been found, and this same Venus is being of the potato that has held its own all through the years. And then some one ever pick potatoes, I mean, in putting forth a claim for honors in women-folks? I did, once when a school girls on a Saturday in order to
him this service paying at the rate of
of fifty cents a day and board, and
self. I never knew fifty cents could
be so gloriously in the morning
and dwindle to more backbone. And
the time the sun had gathered its
covers and gone into some other
realm at night. It was anything but
"The end of a perfect day." I never saw those pickers in the fields, bending
over, bean vines, dragging their backs
along, and thankful for the chance
chance to earn a living from the soil,
but what I wonder why some one
does not claim the honor for his
house-keeping of planning a dinner
that whisks dizzily over these same
vines and deposits the beans with a flourish into the waiting basket. But
another raises hands in protest.
"What, would you have still other
machinery invented, in this age of
machinery, and thus deprive us of our livelihood?" No, no, I take it all
back. "Man must work and women
must weep," so goes the old song.

Other Honors

That old library at Halthers, celebrating its 175 anniversary in 1930, honored by the past, honored by the present, and stepping gloriously on into the future, was the scene of the Library Association that met there on Tuesday, October 23rd. How they gathered from different sections of the county to hold a day within its walls, wherein the present generation reviews the past, holds forth to its outstanding, outstretching work of the day, and their striving, hopes for the future, Honors upon honors.

COWNS DISPLAYED AT MONTE CARLO ARE
KEENLY DESCRIBED

By Nadia De Beaud
N. S. Staff Correspondent

PARIS (INS) — Just about everybody continues to enjoy the sun of Monte Carlo, the warmest spot of the Riviera, since it lies in a protective cove. The Sporting with its illuminated mountains is still the smartest place for dinner, and there international society entertains.

Among the new arrivals was the American born Countess Constantini, who looked marvellous in a scintillating green lame evening gown with a fish tail train, and the most wonderful jewels.

At her table were Admiral and Mrs.
A. T. Long, in a light flowered chif-fon gown, Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Phillips, in pink and white printed silk.
Another most effective gown was that of Mrs. Van Rensselaer. It was in dark blue lace and with it she wore gloving hat pearls.

Black velvet with an ermine cape distinguished the Honorable Lady Wombwell.

Same Old Octopus, Even in Disguise

THE Government-in-Business Octopus is putting on a bit of style—wearing a professional cap and gown—but it's the same old Octopus, with the same capacity to crush the life out of private business of the field, is one of the questions the Brain Trust hasn't attempted to answer.

SMART COSTUMES SEEN FOR SPORTS NEAR ST. MORITZ

By Nadia De Beaud
(L. N. S. Staff Correspondent)
PARIS—(INS)—Mornings at the Palace Hotel at St. Moritz are an animated scene, when people meet on their way to their favored sport.

There was Mrs. Richard Lounsbury, of New York and Paris, who is Russian born, bound for the golf course in a dark grey suit, a black tailored shirtwaist and a grey Tyrolean "t" trimmed with a cord, a model which is waterproof.

Mrs. Charles U. Caesar of New York often preferred riding, and she looked smart in a very close fitting short jacket, riding skirt, a felt hat shaped like a derby with a mushroom crown and a smart white stock. She always had an attendant with her in black breeches and a white coat, white stock and a black velvet peak cap.

Another excellent golf course is at Samaden, where the Engadine championship was won by Henry Clews, Jr., of New York.

HULMEVILLE

A motion picture film dealing with Safety Education was shown at the school-house, Friday afternoon. Two showings were given, one to the four lower grades, and another to the upper four. This was through courtesy of the Automobile Association of America, and was given in connection with the Safety Patrol work at the local school. Tomorrow in each of the school rooms a Hallowe'en party will occur.

Several women from Hulmeville, Pa., attended the W. C. T. U. institute at Langhorne Friends Meeting House, Saturday.

Sessions of the Junior League will commence Thursday evening at seven o'clock at the Methodist Church, continuing each Thursday during the winter.

OPENING OF SEASON
FOR SMALL GAME

Editor, Courier.

Sir:—With the tang of autumn in the air, the cool nights, and the brisk early morning frosts, the hunters of Pennsylvania begin to dream of the coming hunting season. Their dreams will become a reality on November 1, when the small game season will be opened in Pennsylvania.

State game reports indicate that a good season is in the offing. Game is more plentiful, and hunting conditions are improved.

Ernest E. Harwood, executive secretary of the Pennsylvania Board of Game Commissioners, says, "Every indication points to an excellent hunting season this year in Pennsylvania, although a closed season on bears was declared for one year and the daily and seasonal bag limit on rabbits reduced. Rabbits have been reduced to a seasonal limit of 26. Last season the limit for the season was 39. While these actions may have some slight bearing on the amount of the licenses sold I believe it will be so small as to be almost negligible."

According to N. E. Staybaugh, comptroller, the outlook for the 1934 season, "judging by recent surveys made by our officers in the field, the coming season will be one of the best we have had for many years, especially for small game."

"Everything points towards an excellent deer season also, and through the closing of the bear season, it is hoped to increase these animals to a point where they will outstand hunting during the fall of 1935."

Daniel Potter, deputy game protector, whose jurisdiction includes Bristol Township, predicts an excellent season for Bucks county hunters. According to him the season promises to produce plentiful bags. He stresses, however, the need for co-operation with the Game Commission in obeying the laws and respecting the fellow sportsmen. Potter estimates that before the season is over at least 25,000 licenses will be issued to hunters in this section of the state.

Potter, in his official capacity as a State Game Protector, has released in this section during the summer a number of pheasants and rabbits. The allotments were in excess of last season. Approximately three times as many rabbits were put out as pheasants. This is explained by the fact that only the male pheasant is open to the hunters while there is no restriction on rabbits.

"Conditions were more favorable this year for the reproduction of wild game," Potter declared. "The season was dry and this aided the pheasants and rabbits materially."

Due to the extremely cold winter last year many of the weaker wild life were lost, but Potter says this will produce a stronger and more vigorous assortment of game this season.

In explaining how the game is distributed throughout the state, Potter urges the sportsmen of this section to report their game kills. These reports determine how the game shall be distributed. If a large number of stags are sent in from this section and relatively few from another section of the state it will be assumed that the section with the larger report will need more restocking. Consequently this section will receive more game for restocking purposes. Do not neglect to submit your report of game killed. Potter urged, "If you have lost the stub attached to your hunting license for this purpose, send down the figure on a plain postcard and send it to the Game Commission at Harrisburg."

More land is being posted in this section of Bucks county each year, Potter declared, and the sportsmen and the farmers are also co-operating more each year.

The stagger system on small game birds will be in effect again this season. This system provides for hunting on certain alternate days throughout the open season. The object is to give equal opportunities to as large a group of hunters as possible. By this method almost every section will find some part of the season open to him.

The small game birds include: Grouse, quail, ringneck pheasant, and wild turkeys.

Safety and caution are being emphasized by the Game Commission to insure a successful season. Rules for hunting accidents are being redrafted. Other precautions include: Stamp out all fires; a burning fire is a burning shame.

Shoot carefully and respect the farmer's property.

Take only your share of the game. Your license does not permit you to hunt for another.

Don't always take the limit if it is so go will result in waste.

Drive with care. Much game is destroyed by the automobile each year. Wild life cannot cope with our speed.

Several innovations in duck hunting have been adopted this season. The most important of these is the adoption of the "rest-day" plan. This consists of hunting on Thursday, Friday and Saturday of each week. The season, which opened October 18, will continue to November 22.

Another innovation is the issuance of a "duck" stamp known as the Federal Waterfowl Hunting Stamp. Of 41 face value the stamp must be attached to the hunting license when applying for waterfowl. Its purpose is to raise revenue to aid in the preservation of migratory birds. These stamps are on sale in post offices in cities of more than 2,500 population and all county seats.

A great many hunters do not know what species of waterfowl come within the scope of the Duck Stamp License. They are: ducks, geese, brant, and swan. However, Pennsylvania has no open season for brant and swans.

The Board of Game Commissioners, which has materially aided the hunter of Pennsylvania, has progressed to a marked extent in the past two years. The revenue credited to the Game Fund during this period reached the second highest mark in the history of the Department with a total of $2,317,305.00.

During the same period there were purchased and released for restocking purposes 117,884 cottontail rabbits, 2,093 varying hares, 6,192 ringnecked pheasants, 418 Reeves pheasants, 60 wild turkeys, 1,294 Hungarian partridges, 510 fox squirrels, 697 raccoons, and 227 ruffed and sharp-shinned grouse. These figures do not include the thousands of pheasants, quail, and turkeys raised at the game farms nor the great number of various species trapped on lands closed to hunting and released elsewhere.

Another achievement was the acquisition of 106,433 acres of additional State Game Land, bringing the aggregate area now owned by the sportsmen of Pennsylvania to 426,575 acres.

Still another significant fact is that in the 1933 season, considering the number of hunters afield, there were fewer accidents, than at any time since the enactment of the Hunter's License Law in 1913.

A remarkable record which increases co-operation upon the part of the sportsmen of Pennsylvania will make still greater.

over this goal and in the final period it was only the stubborn defense of the Purple and Gold which saved the game from ending in at least a deadlock or a victory for Lambertville.

The only attack that the Ramblers produced was an aerial one. They began this attack in the first period when they scored their six-point and kept it up throughout the game. Occasionally they would try to smash that strong defense of the Bristolians but it was of no avail. St. Ann's used their power plays throughout the entire match and with a deceptive play sandwiched between gained more yardage than the Jerseyites.

The manner in which Lambertville started off made the Purple and Gold rooters feel as if they were in for a facing. After five minutes of playing with St. Ann's defending the north goal, Bornice made a kick which was carried back to his own 39 yard line by the strong wind. Two plays were unsuccessful for Lambertville and then Faherty stood on the 10 yard line and heaved a bullet pass to Masterson on the 10 yard line. Tershon was the only player near the teeling Rambler but he could not prevent the player from crossing the goal. The try for the extra point was a failure when the ball hit the left upright in the goal-post.

The touchdown did nothing more than to insert more fighting spirit into the Bucks County champions for they went out in the second canto and scored twice to win the match. This time it was the Jerseyites who were acting the wind. A blocked kick paved the way for the touchdown and this was done by Tony Angelo in the middle of the period. Masterson attempted to boot out of danger but Angelo broke through and blocked the punt and recovered on the 7 yard line. It took two plays for "Socks" Seneca to score the touchdown and even the count.

Following this, Lambertville got off a bad punt and it was recovered by the converted St. Ann's linesman, Dick Seneca, who downed the ball on the 17 yard line. Seneca and Bornice alternated in carrying the ball eight yards and this aided by a five yard penalty brought the pigskin to the four yard line. A smash brought the ball to the six yard line and it took four plays to take it over. The Lambertville team put up a fine defense but was penalized twice for offside, because of its eagerness to smash the play.

The playing of "Bud" Tunis, diminutive center of the Purple and Gold team stood out in the victory. Tunis, although playing with an injured shoulder, broke up play after play of the visitors and his playing was on a par with the average center. His opponent was Masterson, the heaviest man on the Jersey team. On the whole the entire St. Ann's team played its best football of the season.

It was the fourth consecutive win of the current season for the localities and places them in a fine position to beat the Wissahickon Eagles whom they play next Sunday in a benefit game for the Harriman Hospital. Following this they will meet the Rocke A. A. eleven in a return match. Rocke is the only team to beat the Saints in two seasons. On Thanksgiving Day, the Purple and Gold will defend its Bucks County championship at Sellersville.

Lambertville proved its mettle by scoring in the first period when opportunity knocked. Masterson kicked to Bornice on the 10 yard line and he returned it 10 more. Gallone got a yard off tackle. Faherty got Bornice for a five yard loss. Bornice went back to kick but fumbled for a three yard loss. Bornice then kicked to the 33 yard mark. Warner made a yard and then Schmutz found an opening at tackle for eight more. A criss-cross was broken up by Tullio and Court for a six yard loss. A pass met with failure and St. Ann's received possession of the ball. Tershon and Bornice hit the line without a gain. Bornice kicked to his own 39 yard line. Faherty made two yards off tackle and Warner pounded the right side for two more. Upsyke added two more and then Faherty standing on the 40 yard line heaved a long spiral pass to the left side of the field where Tershon was guarding. Masterson ran straight and cut suddenly. The pumpkin sailed over Tershon's head into the arms of Masterson who went over the goal line untouched. It was the first touchdown scored on St. Ann's since 1932. The try for the extra point was a failure.

St. Ann's made a short kick which was recovered by Tullio. Tershon made four yards and Seneca followed with five more. Seneca made the first down on the fray on a smash at the left side. Bornice tried the left end without a gain and a long pass was knocked down. Seneca ripped off three yards at tackle and Bornice carried the ball on an end run but fumbled and lost the ball on the 39 yard line. Upsyke failed to gain. And Warner made a yard at left tackle. Lambertville kicked to Bornice who was downed on his 39 yard line. Gallone smashed through center for four yards. Seneca broke loose and added a first down. Tershon failed to gain and Tosti made two yards as the first quarter ended.

Bornice made a yard and then Tosti kicked to the 10 yard line of the visitors. Court broke through and got Faherty for a three yard loss. Moonan then kicked to the Jersey team's own 14 yard strip. A lateral pass was good for a yard. A long pass barely escaped the outstretched arms of Tullio. Tosti then booted over the end zone and Lambertville received the ball on their 29 yard line. Lambertville attempted to kick on the first play but Angelo broke through and blocked the punt and recovered on the visiting team's seven yard line. Seneca got four yards off center. He then tore around the left end to score standing up. The try for the extra drop-kick by Bornice was low. The score at this point of the match was deadlocked at 6-6.

Immediately after this, the Purple and Gold worked its way to another six-point and victory. Nicols kicked to Schmutz on the 10 yard line where he ball was returned ten yards. Warner lost a yard, trying the left end. Schmutz kicked straight into the air and Dick Seneca grounded the ball on the 18 yard line. Bornice sliced off four yards at tackle and Seneca added five more through the right side. An offside penalty charged to Lambertville brought the ball to the four yard line. Seneca pounded center and brought the ball to within six inches of the goal. St. Ann's was penalized five yards for having the backfield in motion. Bornice made five yards on an end run and then Lambertville was penalized for offside bringing the pigskin to within a foot of the goal line. Time was beginning to get short and St. Ann's had to rush their plays.

Seneca hit tackle but failed to make it. Bornice then crashed over the line and scored to give St. Ann's the lead, 12-6. The try for the extra point by Nicols was a failure. Only two plays remained for the first half and these failed to net either team anything. Neither team threatened in the third period although St. Ann's reached the ten yard mark of the visitors. In this period, Lambertville added a first down to their total and this was the result of a fifteen yard penalty for roughing the kicker.

In the fourth period, "Petie" Court on a play in which the end reverses his field and carries the ball made a total of thirty-three yards. He was brought down by Moonan who came from behind to tackle the runner after he had an open field for a touchdown with three players leading the interference. However, on the following play a fumble took place and Masterson recovered for Lambertville on the 29 yard line. A long pass, Faherty to Schmutz gained a first down on the thirteen yard line but here the St. Ann's team proved its worth and held for downs. Lambertville tried three passes in succession but could not complete one.

Next Sunday, St. Ann's will play a benefit game for the Harriman Hospital, meeting the Wissahickon Eagles. The entire proceeds of the game with the exception of overhead expenses will be given to the Harriman Hospital.
